Lisa:

That's fine. You do not have to stipulate, but I had an obligation to make the request.

Thanks for getting right back to me.

Mr. Austin:

The point is you knew about both oppositions and both replies when you request your original extension. You knew there would be responses and you knew there would be replies. Am I missing something?

This probably isn't the time to ask me for any courtesies, as I just finished reviewing your responses to our most recent discovery. There are no words.

Sincerely,

Lisa Clay

Yes. Two oppositions (yours and one in another matter) were filed on Friday. The replies to both are due 7 days later, June 29th.

Mr. Austin:

You are suggesting that since we obtained the stipulated response two additional motions to which you have responses due prior to the 29th have been filed? Please provide more details so that we can evaluate the necessity of your request. You are on thin ice with me to say the least after last week's request.

Sincerely,

Lisa Clay

Lisa and Jon:

Will you stipulate to an extension of one week from June 29, 2018 to July 6, 2018, for me to file the reply to your response?

Presently I have four briefs due on June 29th, two of which are in response to filings last Friday, and my current work load will not permit me adequate time to address them all: (i) an appellate reply brief before the NV Sup. Ct., (ii) the opposition to your renewed motion to compel, (iii) a reply in a motion practice before the 9th Cir., and (iv) this reply brief for which I am seeking an extension.
